

Interpreting the News

Governor Williams is not Michigan's first governor to enjoy talking at luncheons and dinners, following festive queens and otherwise being the answer to a program chairman's prayer. Kim Miller used to thrive on these things even while the legislature was thrashing about at Lansing.

Williams stuck to the job faithfully while solons were in town. He waived aside all arguments in June and July for a speaking schedule that resembled a barnstorming trip. Like Sigler, he prefers travel by plane.

The governor's staff is now convinced that many voters prefer to have their governor "work at the job." Result: Fewer speaking engagements are being booked for "Scoppy" next fall. The governor and his family are residing during August at the governors home on Mackinac Island.

When to call the legislature into special session is a decision yet to be made. The governor insists Michigan should enact a new tax immediately if it is to avert financial chaos next spring. He plugs vigorously for a corporation income tax rather than a personal income tax, and defends his position as not favoring a "soak the consumer" levy.

Even if the legislature were to adopt a flat personal income tax, says the governor, taxpayers could soon favor a graduated income tax by constitutional amendment.

Victor Knox, speaker of the house of representatives, is convinced Michigan voters would approve a "tax boost" or a new tax until actual need had been demonstrated. A treasury report will furnish such proof, says Knox. This reasoning influenced Republican legislators, he said recently, to sidestep the issue of new taxes until 1950.

If this strategy is adhered to, Republican legislative leaders will wait 1950 to see how much money is needed and then cut the tax accordingly. To do anything now, so this argument goes, is to pass at a future development.

But 1950 is also re-election year for many legislators, as with state executive officials. The imposition of a new tax in an election year is regarded by some as something next to political heresy.

The more the Republicans wait, the more their opponents are going to lambast the party for protecting big corporations from a tax on their profits. Governor Williams wishes to put the G. O. P. on the defensive in 1950. He has been hammering away at the corporation tax consistently in 1949 speaking tours.

A week or so ago we had the opportunity to swing into the Upper Peninsula as far west as Marquette and Escanaba. Everywhere we were asked about Secretary of State Fred M. Alger, Jr., and State Treasurer D. Hale. Two prospective candidates for governor in the Republican primary next spring. Also: "Is Mr. Keyes going to run for governor this time?"

Aside from saving that Alger, Hale and Keyes are all definitely interested in the nomination, we decided to stay neutral. Partisan politics have no place in this street column. But the inquiries do show an interest or curiosity of Republican observers about 1950.

Another point: Harry F. Kelly is a possible candidate. Would a "third term" issue lessen his popularity with Michigan voters? That is something for the stove league to talk about this fall.

Co-operative efforts to curtail Michigan's highway traffic toll are beginning to bring dividends. For three consecutive months a decrease in traffic deaths has taken place. Maxwell Halsey, executive secretary of the Michigan safety commission, reports the next objective is to make highways more safe for children. More than 4,500 children were killed or injured in Michigan traffic accidents last year, says Halsey.

Does your community need a hospital? The Federal government will pay one-third of the cost of construction, providing the local community raises the other two-thirds. This aid is limited to $11 million dollars for Michigan. Dr. McGoldrick, Williams' assistant director of the state office of hospital survey and construction, reports that seven projects are now under way and three more will break ground next fall. The ten hospitals and hospital additions will add 1,000 beds to Michigan's facilities.

Indiana Air Guard Here

Over 750 men and officers of the Indiana National Air Guard under the command of Colonel Allison Maxwell are now in the midst of a strenuous two week training period at the Grayling McNamara Airport.

The 122nd Fighter Group, which constitutes the Indiana Air Guard, flew a fighter sweep around Michigan winding up with a simulated strafing of the Grayling port as they arrived here Sunday afternoon. The ground forces of the Hoosier flyers arrived here by train about 5 A. M. Sunday morning.

A truck convoy also brought in heavy equipment. The convoy numbered 50 vehicles and about 50 tons of equipment was brought in by the big trucks.

The Indiana group's headquarters are in Indianapolis and is made up of two fighter squadrons. One is based at Indianapolis and the other at Fort Wayne. Forty-five P-51 fighter planes took part in the sweep over Michigan as they moved to their training base here.

Ground forces loaded 5,400 pounds of bombs Sunday evening in order that the group, which is part of the 7th Fighter Wing, might be off on their firing and bombing training early Monday morning.

The 122nd Fighter Group will undergo almost the same training procedure as the Michigan Air Guard with air to air and air to ground firing, bombing and rocket firing as the base of training.

Visitors are welcome to the big air base while the Indiana Guard is here but are specifically requested to remain in the spectator areas. It was pointed out by the Indiana Air Guard's Public Relations Officers that this request was for the protection of the public.

Legion Offers Vets Assistance

The American Legion will assist all local veterans in applying for National Service Life Insurance Dividends.

This was announced today by Jack Wade, commander of the Grayling Post No. 106 of The American Legion of Grayling.

"Our post will have the necessary applications which veterans will have to make to the VA to get their NSLI dividends," Commander Wade said. "Every veteran who held his NSLI policy for 90 days or more will have a refund coming to him. The VA expects to pay out approximately $2,800,000 in these refunds. Payments per veteran are expected to average about $175 according to the VA. Applications should be filed as quickly as possible because it will take weeks and months for a veteran to get his refund check."

Actually Commander Wade explained, The American Legion will put on the biggest man hunt in history in trying to locate veterans who are eligible for the NSLI refunds.

"The VA estimates that some 16,000,000 veterans are entitled to NSLI refunds, Commander Wade said. "Actually today the VA has the home address of only six million of eligible veterans. The American Legion will help it to locate 10,000,000 others."

'49 Michigan National Guard Encampment Nears Close

The largest crowds in many a year turned out last Saturday afternoon and evening and again Sunday morning as Governor General Earl R. Stewart of Grand Rapids, former commander of the Michigan National Guard.

Mrs. Williams arrived in camp later in the day and with the Governor was guest of honor at the reception and dance held at the Officer's Club. A large crowd gathered with the receiving time meeting officers, their wives and Grayling townfolks for over an hour and a half when dancing to the music of the 46th Division band started.

Before the units of the division passed in review, Governor Williams officially presented the new shoulder insignia to the officers and men of the 46th. It is a clenched mailed fist in gold on a shoulder patch of blue.

Governor Williams spent the night in a tent on Division Hill with General Loveland and his staff.

Sunday morning, on the fourth anniversary of Japan's defeat, Memorial services were held on Division Hill before 8,000 Guardsmen and a huge crowd of guests for Michigan National Guard members who gave their lives in four wars in which they have participated.

"An object lesson, which our enemies cannot fail to understand," said Governor Williams in referring to the Michigan National Guard as "Democracy under arms," as he spoke at the Sunday services.

Other speakers were Major General Loveland, Brig. General Moran and Chaplain Gustave Schellhase of Detroit.

The quest for world harmony, Gov. Williams declared, may require the backing of "the physical and moral strength of our Democracy."

"Today our faith in the individual is opposed by an insidious faith in the power of the state," he said. "We must make Democracy work more efficiently than ever. We must demonstrate to all the world that efficient government and individual freedom can be synonymous—and much more pleasant."

The medal honors the late Brig. General Harold T. Weber, assistant commander of the division. Troops, jeeps, tanks, and heavy motorized equipment rolled up the review field as overhead F-4 planes directly attached to the division for liaison and spotting work, roared overhead.

He then pinned on Master Sgt. Paul K. Kaiser of Calumet, the Stewart Medal which is awarded at each encampment to the candidate scoring the highest in soldierly skill, command ability and appearance.

Sgt. Kaiser, who saw four years of wartime service in the Pacific Theater, is a member of Headquarters and Service Company, 107th Combat Engineer Battalion. He is a sergeant major of his battalion and a senior at Michigan College of Mining and Engineering where he is studying civil engineering.

Runners up were Sgt. First Class Gerald F. Hieden, 19, of Detroit 422 Infantry regiment and Sgt. Eugene Harmon, 126th Infantry, Grand Rapids, and Master Sgt. Ernest Sebastian, 46th Quartermaster Company of Midland.

Night Maneuver Ends Training

Night maneuvers are keeping Michigan National Guard busy during the middle part of this week with a better than three-quarter of a million dollars payroll being readied for distribution Thursday.

Facing a split second schedule for moving home, the citizen soldiers were hard at work this week setting in their full training on the several new firing ranges. The known distance ranges, the 100 to 500 yard ranges, the transition ranges for both rifles, carbines and light and heavy machine guns boomed with the fire of weapons as did the artillery and tank firing ranges north east of Grayling.

Tactical training will keep most of the companies busy today as the tank companies prepare for rail movement and a $800,000 payroll is distributed today. On Friday, the tank companies will complete the loading of their big mechanized monsters onto flat cars and late Friday night and early Saturday morning companies will start moving out for their home stations.

With the distribution of payroll money to the 46th Division today more than $900,000 will have been paid to air and ground forces. Federal expense for the training period total well more than $1,125,000 with oil and gasoline accounting for $119,000 and transportation over $129,000.

The 182nd Field Artillery Battalion will complete the loading of their weapons Saturday morning and will move off. Motor truck convoys will also start leaving Saturday morning. By noon or shortly thereafter Camp Grayling will be relatively clear of troops for another year. A small detachment will be left to complete closing of the camp for the year and pelioing up the grounds as well as other duties.

An automobile collision early Sunday morning near the north edge of Frederic on US-27 severely injured three persons and another slightly.

Shanley suffered severe bruises of the legs and abdomen. His wife, Gloria, 26, suffered a fractured spine and Charles E. Fetzer, 27, of Riga, Michigan, who was in the Shanley vehicle suffered a fractured pelvis. His wife, Madeline suffered from shock. All were brought to the Grayling Mercy Hospital.

A Spider In The Paper

Many years ago Mark Twain was editor of a small-town newspaper. A reader wrote in saying that he found a spider in his paper, and wanted to know if that was an omen of good or bad luck. Mark Twain answered: "Finding a spider in our newspaper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Retailing has come a long way since those days, and the art of advertising has undergone great development. And advertising, by stores or any other kind of business, is a typical outgrowth of the competitive system. It is the best possible means of reaching the people who want goods and services, of urging the merits of one brand as against another, and of encouraging the consumer to go to some particular retail outlet. No store-keeper could long charge an excessive price with competitors offering in print the same or an equivalent product at a lower price. And deceptive advertising always defeats its own purpose. The wise merchant advertises aggressively, but he bases his story on appeal, not fiction.

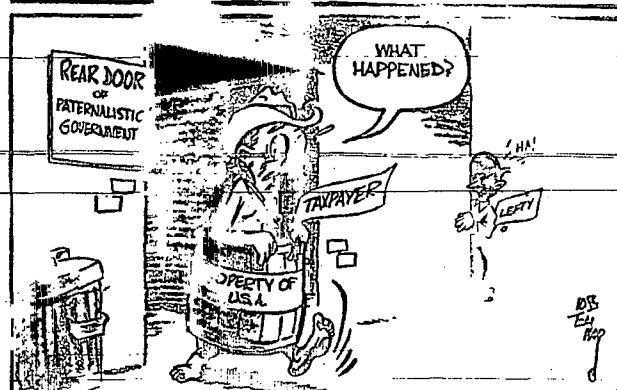

The growth of the chain systems did much to encourage retail advertising. The chains advertised their merits in the search for trade—and the independents did the same thing in order to hold and to expand their own business. This was good for all concerned—consumers, stores and newspapers.

Salesmanship is a driving force in keeping the American economy running. Advertising is the heart of it.

Miss Sweet: "That would remove some of the dullness, I'm sure."—Snap Shots.

Shocking Program Big Success

The recent shocking program demonstrated by several members of the Fisheries Division of the Michigan Conservation Department and held in the experimental area of the North Branch of the AuSable River in the northern part of Lovells Township was a distinct success.

Approximately 200 sportsmen and their families and friends turned out to witness the demonstration. A great number of fish were checked and returned to the stream, after having been measured and counted.

Dr. E. Cooper reported that the fish population was on a par with recent tabulations made early this season and last year. He also said that the brook trout tabulations were a little better than on previous counts and that they had averaged an inch to an inch and a half longer than on previous counts.

Not many ten inch brooks were found there were many that measured nine to nine and three quarter inches in length and these no doubt will reach the ten inch size by the end of the season.

The demonstration took place at the Twin Bridges and above and below. This was done to give the large crowd a chance to witness the shocking of fish. The second count was taken both above and below the log jam at Lovells. The people lined both banks and had a good view of the men with the electrodes and nets. The trout were netted and placed in a large tub, measured and counted.

Large numbers of suckers were found in some spots and a large pike was caught and killed. In the near future, Dr. Cooper and a crew of men will take another count as they were hampered a great deal by the large number of enthusiasts wading in the stream, and they were often ahead of the men with the electrodes.

He also plans on taking a fish count in the area where the stream improvement crews have been working all summer. This section of the stream from the south end of the wurst ranch to the North County Line has been greatly improved by the addition of deflectors and the shallow sections of the stream have been deepened. Fish shelters have been built and a large number of stumps have been placed in favorable locations. The flow of the stream has been speeded up considerably and this will help the trout population to a great extent. This part of the stream will be a good place to fish next season.

A substantial majority of the members of the Lovells Hook and Trigger Club are in favor of restricting this particular section to fly fishing only and to raising the legal length to 10 inches, as at present, for brook trout during the 1950 season and to cut the creel limit to 5 brook trout or to 10 trout in all, brooks and browns.

The Club is greatly indebted to the following members of the Fisheries Division for making the demonstration a success and for creating a great deal of interest in the experimental section: Dr. E. L. Cooper, in charge of Pigeon River Trout Station at Vanderbilt; Wayne Tody and Howard Gping, crew; Hans L. Peterson, District Fisheries Supervisor; J. T. Wilkerson Regional Fisheries Supervisor of Roscommon; Ebb Warren, Regional Education Division; Dr. L. N. Allison, Fisheries Pathologist of Grayling; Burton P. Hunt, Research Associate, Institution for Fisheries, Grayling; Conservation Officers Clarence Roberts and Russell Wright. Mort Neff, sportscaster was also present and made a recording of the demonstration and also interviewed the club officers as to their opinions of the work being done in the experimental area. Dave Shetter, in charge of the Hunt Creek Experimental Stations was also present. He is a pioneer in this field and for several years prior to his moving to the Hunt Creek Station, worked on this section of the North Branch. Several local club members helped in running the boat and also in netting the fish.

At a later date, the Lovells Hook and Trigger Club plan to hold an open meeting to discuss the advisability of restricting this area to fly fishing only and to cutting the creel limits. Several other matters are to be discussed, it was said, that would be of in-

County Residents Can Vie For Fair Prizes

When Montmorency County's third annual 4-H Free Fair is held at Atlanta, August 25-27, all departments and classes will be open for the first time to residents of counties adjacent to Montmorency. They will have a chance to share in the more than $1,500 offered in prizes.

The contest will be held Friday, August 26 at 8 P. M., and valuable prizes will be awarded the winners and runners up. Judges will make their selections on the basis of general appearance which counts 50 points, personality 30 points, a sewing demonstration 10 points and a nail painting contest 10. The Queen will be crowned at the end of the contest and will ride on a float in the parade the following day.

Entries are still open in the talent contest, the one for juniors to be held Thursday, August 25 at 8 P. M. Open to anyone up to 19 years of age living in any of the eight counties mentioned, the contestants will be divided into four age brackets, up to 8 years, 8 to 11, 11 to 15 and 15 through 18. An attractive certificate of award and an embossed pin were received by the local Subordinate Grange to be presented to the essay winner. National winners will be given an all-expense-paid trip to Washington where they will be honored at a public ceremony by national leaders in the field of agriculture.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan is chairman of the board of judges to select the national winners and other members of the board include Dr. H. H. Bennett, chief, Soil Conservation Service, USDA; Mrs. Malcolm Byrnes, president, National Home Demonstration Council, Ethel, La.; Dr. W. T. Spanton, chief, Agricultural Education Service, U. S. Office of Education and Dr. M. L. Wilson, Director, Extension Work, USDA.

Albert S. Goss, Master of the National Grange and Clifton A. Woodrum, president of the American Plant Food Council, both sent congratulatory messages to the local winner.

"Thinking and action on the important subject of conservation of our soil resources points the way to the adoption of better land management practices which will result in a more stabilized agriculture," Mr. Goss said.

"We in the fertilizer industry are proud of the fact that an increasingly large number of our young men and women today are thinking in terms of protecting our vast soil resources," Mr. Woodrum said. "Their essays indicate that agriculture will not lack sound leadership in future generations."

Presenting the New

Cadillac Coupe de Ville

ILLUSTRATED above is the Coupe de Ville—an ultra smart new Cadillac body type, designed for those who seek the low-swept lines and open-airiness of a convertible—combined with the comfort, convenience and safety of a closed car.

It is a classic example of modernity and practicality—one of the most desirable and most useful models ever to issue from the boards of Cadillac designers. Yet—smart and beautiful as it is—the Coupe de Ville's greatest superiority lies in the chassis on which it is built. For, like all Cadillacs, the core of its goodness is found in its performance—in the wonderful capacity of its new V-type engine; in the soft, even, restful manner in which it rolls over the highway; in the easy, effortless response to steering, wheel and brakes. It is, truly, a symphony in motion.

We should be pleased indeed to give you full details about this wonderful new body type—as well as the other beautiful models which grace our showroom. Why not come in at your earliest convenience?

SHORT STORIES

A Prince Can Laugh

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

A WEEK after I established residence in Seabrook, Ray Quimper, my next door neighbor took time off to drive me around the town and show me the points of interest. Toward evening he stopped his car before a driveway that led up to a huge brick house on top of Drybridge Hill. It was the only brick building in town and could be seen for miles around. I had wondered about it since the day of my arrival.

3-Minute Fiction

"The home of Prince Alexander Motsevlch Deborin," he explained.

I looked at him curiously, sensing that this was a proud moment for Ray. He had saved the brick house until last, like a child relishing the last morsel.

"Of course," Ray explained further. "He has a city home too. But the fact is he spends the greater part of his time out here. He craves solitude."

"Are you sure? I mean, wouldn't it be fitting to let the man know you're glad to have him as a citizen?"

"We've tended to that," Ray said importantly. "Three days after his arrival a committee made up of leading citizens waited on the prince and extended him a formal welcome." He regarded me sagely. "We're smart enough not to antagonize the man by pestering him to death."

On the day of which I write I was removing the storm windows from my house, for spring was near and the day was bright and warm. The prince came strolling along my street and stopped, oddly enough, at the end of my drive to watch. I perceived him from the corner of my eye, though gave no indication that I had seen. After a moment or two, much to my satisfaction, he turned in at the drive and came slowly toward me. At this precise moment the stepladder on which I was standing tilted precariously and the window I was removing threatened to tumble to the ground.

I uttered a cry of alarm, turned, perceived the prince as if for the first time, and shouted to him for aid. Involuntarily, he leaped forward and steadied the ladder until I had descended.

"Phew!" I grinned. "That was a close call."

"It was indeed," he replied. "Would you mind holding the ladder for me on this window over here?" He seemed a little surprised, but agreed to lend his assistance. He proved as good a helper as I could have asked for.

Three windows I removed while he steadied the ladder and helped me lower them to the ground. We chatted amiably about the weather. PRESENTLY the task was done and I turned to him, grinning.

"Thanks a lot. I don't know how I would have managed without you."

"Really?" He seemed to appreciate my compliment. "Frankly, I've enjoyed it, not only the work, but our little visit." He hesitated. "You are new in town, aren't you?"

"Comparatively," I said. "It's a mighty nice town. Folks are all like yourself. Ready and willing to lend a hand when help is needed."

I smiled happily. "The fact that I know your name, Prince Alexander, proves a little theory of my own."

He stared in astonishment. "You know who I am? You knew when you asked me to help remove the windows?"

I nodded. "Your philosophy and mine have a good deal in common, Prince. And that is, that you're no different from the rest of us. I'd even venture to say that you are quite unhappy living up there in your castle so far removed from everybody. To prove that I am right, I'm going to ask you a question. Tomorrow I'm going fishing. How would you like to come along?"

"I'd like to very much," he said. "But we must keep it a secret from the rest of the people. It would be a pity to destroy their illusion."

I agreed, winking at him knowingly, and the prince and I then and there shared a hearty laugh.

THIS BUICK SPECIAL 3-PASSENGER COUPE (Model 46) does double duty as a business car and a car for the small family

Come see this Stunning New Buick SPECIAL—big in room, big in valve-in-head straight-8 power, easy to manage in size and price

Yes, we know it looks like a lot more money.

That stunning new front end—those graceful, tapering fenders—those bigger interiors, and high-visibility windows add up to a car you'd expect to wear a pretty fancy price tag.

But come in and see for yourself how right we were when we said this new beauty was priced right down your alley.

Come try the comfort-patterned seats, handle this easily managed wheel, lift the hood and see the bonnet-filling valve-in-head straight-eight power plant you command, measure the shorter bumper-to-bumper length.

Then do a little hard-boiled matching-up of price tags.

In particular—compare this beauty with the sixes—and ask yourself why you should pay for straight-eight power and not get it.

You have, remember, three smart body types to choose from—the tidy, three-passenger Coupe shown here, a neat 2-door, six-passenger Sedan and a smart 4-door Sedan with the roomiest interiors ever found in a Buick SPECIAL.

They're going fast, as you might expect. Getting a firm order in is a smart move just to insure early delivery.

course goes to the early missions for their work among them, but I believe that some of it should go to the lumberjack for his spirit of fair play and tolerance. I was about ten years old when my dad bought timber on the Missaukee Indian Reservation and we moved up there from Sand Lake, Kent Co., and logged there for about five years before going on to Roscommon, and then deeper into the AuSable River country.

One Sunday John Green-sky, an Indian, preacher, came to our place and asked if he might be allowed to go into the menshanty and preach to the boys. We were new to the country, so put it up to the crew of about forty men. The response was unanimous, "we can take it if he can." So this squaw, aging Indian laid his Bible on a card table and cleared his throat, and began to preach. He didn't quote from the book, he probably couldn't even read it but here are a few highlights from his sermon rendered in broken English, Indian words and gesticulations.

"Men were evil and a great darkness covered the earth. The summer sun hid his face and the winter wind came down out of the north with his two evil children, winter snow and winter ice, and there was no game. Little children were crying because they were hungry, and men were afraid. Then the voice of Shin-gaw was heard in the trees, 'you are suffering from your sins,' he cried. 'You rob one another's traps, and lie in wait to do damage. You have followed De-pot-tami-gan, the angle of darkness who lives only in swamps and other dark evil places. There can be no peace or security or happiness when your hearts are filled with hate for your fellowman and you spend your time thinking evil thoughts of him. Turn back to Shin-gaw.' His voice is in the songs of little birds and the laughter of little children. He is seen in the dapples of sunlight on the forest floor. He is in the hand-shake and in the smoke of the pipe-of-peace. Amen."

John Green-sky got a rousing cheer and a dollar apiece from every man there that day. He came many times afterward and was always treated with the greatest respect. (We learned later that he was known as Simon Green-sky in the Osoda county, where he is remembered as quite a famous Indian preacher.)

HEN PARTY

The following was inspired by a party held at the home of Mrs. A. M. Lewis on Thursday evening, August 4th at Lake Margrethe, when a group of ladies gathered there to help her celebrate her birthday.

Birds of a feather, flock together Thursday evening, August 4th. To celebrate a birthday date. The 64 dollar question. For Eve will scorn, the date she was born. That a register cant even mention.

The hens congregated together created A golden egg—in a ten. For Eve to buy a new supply of The wish she had as a yen. With an "old fashioned" way the flock was gay. As they heckled the birthday hen.

No gobblers allowed. But the hens were proud to gobble. Italian spaghetti. With no surcease from stomach increase. Until they had their fill. Then came the confession with no recession. That Eve was on top of the hill.

Evening spent in cackling. Now and again a quackling. In antics of the past. As feathered friends renewed the old in memories that ever last.

AMPHIBIOUS HELICOPTER . . . The air force's first amphibious helicopter, the Sikorsky-built H-5H, just breaks from the water after a routine sea landing. With the new amphibious gear, the H-5H can land with equal ease ashore or on the water, thereby increasing its utility as a rescue, search, and liaison aircraft. The four little bladders before and behind the engine make it possible to carry three litter patients. Plans can hover motionless over rough sea and haul up survivors without further injury to hurt persons or danger to the rescuers. This device may revolutionize rescue at sea or delivery of goods to stranded ships.
